Issue 16 · 21 - 27 Apr 2018

Never mind a bad penny, Max Branning is more like a bad £5 note, given the number of times he's reappeared in the Square, brazenly brushed off his past sins – and started work on some new ones! Of course, Max doesn't exactly get a warm welcome when he reveals himself as the new owner of the car lot this week. During his last stint in Walford he made an enemy of a record number of residents, even by his standards! But of course, Max being Max, he soon finds himself a warmer welcome with the help of his irresistible charm!

"Max doesn't get a warm welcome!"

As he meets Mel for the first time, we can sense a bit of double trouble coming up, as these two are certainly made for each other. But what about his poor nice-guy brother Jack, who's been waiting for Mel's icy exterior to be melted away by his own charm?

Love Max or loathe him, Albert Square is always a more interesting place when he's around!

The INSIDE SCOOP

First with the week's HOTTEST headlines...

Ross has been left in a terrible place following the attack on him

Rhona discovers what Ross is up to, and tries to help him

Ross faces his attacker!

AS THE COURTROOM DRAMA EXPLODES, WILL DEBBIE'S SECRET BE REVEALED?

EMMERDALE | ITV TUESDAY

Ross is forced to face up to his demons this week, as he finally shares a courtroom with Simon McManus – the man who carried out the acid attack on him two months ago.

As the week's events unfold, there are plenty of secrets waiting to come tumbling out – and a number of parties desperately trying to keep them hidden. Will Ross start to piece together the truth that Debbie was behind the attack that's left him severely scarred? And will he crack as he's forced to relive the details of the assault?

"Ross is trying to act confident, though he's also extremely nervous," sighs actor Michael Parr, who plays the troubled fella. "There's no guarantee that Simon will be convicted. They've got a witness who sounds reliable... but this is Emmerdale, so it could never be that straightforward!"

THE NEED FOR DRUGS

The day before his case is due to start, Ross is feeling incredibly vulnerable – and despite having vowed to kick his addiction, he breaks into the veterinary surgery looking for painkillers. However, he's caught in the act by Rhona – and panicked Ross makes a run for it.

"He's addicted, and that's the nature of addiction," explains Michael. "It takes you over, and you don't have any control over it. The craving controls you."

At her wits' end, Rhona finally decides that she has to confide in her boyfriend Pete, telling him of his brother's worrying behaviour. She also informs him that Ross made a pass at her recently – which shocks Pete, who's extremely anxious regarding the self-destructive path Ross is taking.

CONTINUED OVER >

FROM PREVIOUS PAGE

"Ross' head is in the shed," says Michael. "He's just not thinking straight. He made a pass at Rhona because she seemed to show some interest in him, but he misread the signals. Obviously his confidence is very low, and he doesn't have the clearest vision because of everything that's going on in his life. He does care about Rhona's feelings – and Pete's, too. He certainly doesn't want to lose the only family member other than Moira that he has left."

HOPE IN THE FUTURE

The one glimmer of light in Ross' life is his young son, Moses. After the recent panic when the youngster almost swallowed one of his dad's pills, the bond between father and son has been strengthened. Will it prove to be Ross' salvation?

"Well, I certainly hope it is," shares Michael. "He's had a big wake-up call. It's not the final thing that makes him get off the drugs, but it's definitely a large contributing factor. Ross is in a pretty dark place, having very dark thoughts – possibly even thoughts of suicide. Ultimately, though, he's got this son, who he has to carry on for. He's a natural father, and he knows he has to be there for his boy. So I can see an end to Ross' misery – but will it be a light at the end of the tunnel, or a dark ending?"

Given that the entire case against Simon rests on this vital testimony, Ross begins to lose faith, fearing the prosecution will fall apart. Even though the witness statement is read out to the jury, will it be enough to convince them?

"If it's not, there would be so many questions going round in Ross' head,"

Michael tells us. "Would he think that Simon had got away with it, or just that they had the wrong person?"

There's also the question of how Ross would feel if he found out Debbie was the one who instigated the attack.

"Oh, that would be heartbreaking for him," reckons Michael. "Debbie has been his closest companion, and the only person – other than Donna – he's really loved. So if Ross were to discover that she'd played a part... well, he'd see it as treachery of the highest order!"

Tom Spilsbury

CASE COLLAPSES?

It would certainly help Ross get his life back together if he knew his attacker was behind bars. And that's a big 'if' as the trial begins.

"When Ross spies Simon, he recognises him from somewhere," reveals Michael. "He hasn't seen him since the night of the attack, and up till now he's had no idea who did this to him. But after he realises Simon is on trial, it makes him question many things..."

No sooner has the trial begun than there's pandemonium, as the judge explains that the key witness has died!

Debbie exposed!

MOIRA LEARNS OF HER GUILT...

As the trial begins, Debbie is worried that Moira will realise she was behind the acid attack.

If Moira goes to the courtroom and sees Simon, Debbie knows she'll join the dots. Desperate to protect his daughter, Cain tries to persuade his wife not to attend – but to no avail. Moira is duly appalled to learn Simon was behind the attack, and aghast to rumble Debbie's involvement.

As the recriminations begin, Debbie starts to panic that Moira will go to the police with her information – or that she'll decide to tell Ross everything she now knows...

Jack isn't happy at the thought of Max sniffing around Mel

EASTENDERS | BBC1 TUESDAY

Max is back!

HE RETURNS TO FACE HIS FORMER FRIENDS AND NEIGHBOURS...

The residents of Albert Square are none-too-pleased to see Max Brannings back in their lives this week – and they're even more shocked when they find out about his new business venture!

Having been inadvertently responsible for the death of his daughter Abi, Max was left a broken man. After being banned by the rest of the Brannings from attending her funeral, he slunk away from Walford a few weeks ago. But he's starting to get his life back together – and we're about to find out what he's been up to while away...

"A new car lot is opening in the Square, which naturally draws quite a bit of attention from the locals," explains our East End insider. "Ian Beale's curiosity is certainly piqued, and he's stunned when he sees that Max is behind the new business. Ian had secretly hoped that Max would be gone from his life for good – after all, Max did try to murder him only a few short months ago! He's petrified that his nemesis has come back to finish the job properly this time."

Meanwhile, once Sharon hears about the new car lot, she pays Max a visit and warns him off by saying that Phil won't be happy. Max isn't at all bothered, though, and blithely ignores her warning.

"It'll take more than a hard stare from Sharon to ruffle Max," says our mole. "In fact, he's rather enjoying seeing the chaos he's causing – even though he's barely begun!"

Next up Max drops in on the Queen Vic, where he causes yet more tension.

"When Max strides into the pub, bold as brass, Mick and Linda make it very clear that they don't want him there," shares our spy. "And can you blame them? They came very close to losing their home because of his treachery, and even though they know Max has hit rock bottom after losing Abi, they still don't want anything to do with him ever again."

In fact, since he plotted and schemed against virtually everyone in Walford, there are very few people ready to give Max a warm welcome. However, one person who has no prior history with him is Mel Owen. She only recently arrived back in the Square herself, and having just relaunched E20, she's happy to let Max make use of the club. But that annoys his brother Jack.

"Jack can already see what could happen here," sniffs our snitch. "He's been circling Mel for a little while now, and he's obviously interested in her. She's exactly his type – she's the spit of his dead wife Ronnie, in both looks and temperament. But now that Max is back on the scene, Jack sees him as a potential threat. He fears Max will try to get Mel into bed – and let's face it, he's probably right!"

Whatever Max has planned next in the Square, it's surely only a matter of time before the sparks really start to fly...

Tom Spilsbury

OUT FOR REVENGE!

Max has made a host of enemies. Which of them will try to get even?

MICK & LINDA

Max conned the couple into signing away the deeds for the Queen Vic, handing over the boozer to dodgy Weyland & Co. Although they eventually managed to recover the pub, will Mick now try to get his own back?

IAN

Ian discovered that Max was responsible for Steven's death and blackmailing his wife, Jane, to leave Walford. On top of all that, Max tried to strangle him! So if anyone has a score to settle with Max, it's Ian.

PHIL

Max once tricked Phil's son Ben into signing over the Arches to him – and now that Max is treading on his turf again, we don't think Phil will take it lying down! It could be the battle of the Albert Square heavyweights...

MARTIN

Martin wasn't a fan of the "ginger ferret" even before he slept with his wife Stacey on Christmas Eve. There've been some encouraging signs that Martin might make up with Stace – but will Max's return scupper that?

CARMEL

Carmel fell head over heels for Max, and even thought he was going to propose – but she was distraught to learn he'd been two-timing her with Fi Browning. What do they say about a woman scorned...?

CORONATION STREET | ITV MONDAY

Meet my new girlfriend!

DAVID STUNS HIS FAMILY AS HE INVITES TEENAGE SALON SKIVVY EMMA TO LIVE WITH HIM...

David knows he has to do something dramatic to throw Maria off the scent

The Platts are horrified this week, after David spends the night with teenager Emma – then announces that the salon assistant is moving in!

While David's bizarre behaviour further proves that something is very wrong with him, his concerned family remain oblivious to the fact that David was raped by Josh. Can anyone get him to admit what he's going through?

"By making a play for Emma, David is trying to prove to himself – and Josh – that he's a real man," explains Jack P Shepherd, who plays the suffering fella. "He wants to show Josh that he's wrong about him – he's not gay. But Emma is also a toy who distracts him from his demons."

At the start of the week, Gary remains convinced that David is heading for a breakdown, and tries to talk to him. But when he concludes that his neighbour's troubled state is a delayed reaction to wife Kylie's death, David plays along. Shona then mentions to Maria that her relationship with David went downhill after he fell out with Josh – prompting David to take drastic action to throw Maria off the scent...

"For Josh to be punished for this, David must say it out loud"

"Maria is the one person who's getting close to finding out what's wrong with him, so he needs to shut her up," sighs Jack. "David decides to do it in a way that shocks her – but it makes her more concerned about what's going on, too."

Those faces! What will the Platts make of Emma's presence?

In the wake of his outburst, David shuts the salon early and invites Emma round for a beer. When Maria calls in later and comes face to face with Emma wearing very little, she's horrified – but undeterred David hands Emma a set of keys as an invitation to move in!

"Emma is always rabbiting on, so David doesn't have to engage in conversation," shares Jack. "And having her move in is another method of pushing Shona away. The kids have been missing Shona, but now David can send a signal that he's moving on with someone new."

As he brazenly introduces Emma to Max, Lily and the rest of the family, Bethany is appalled to realise that Emma was in the year above her at school! Still David doesn't waver in his drive to ignore his trauma – but just how far will he unravel before someone gets him to open up?

"What David is doing is rash, but he's a person of extremes," muses Jack. "If he'd told someone what happened at the time, he wouldn't be reacting in such a self-destructive way. But that's the point – he should have spoken out. He can't move on until he opens up.

"For Josh to be punished, David has to say it out loud – but he's internalising it. It'll be interesting to see what, if anything, will make him talk..."

Allison Jones

"It's as though David has given up!"

Jack reflects on his anguished alter ego's latest story...

"This storyline has been a challenge for me, and I've enjoyed that aspect of it," shares Jack. "David is making silly decisions and hurting people he loves along the way – it's as though he's given up. He seems powerless – he usually has something up his sleeve, but in this instance he simply hasn't."

"The plot has really got people talking, which is exactly what we set out to do. It's been very well received, and that's great. As an actor you just get on with telling the story, but to see the effect it's had is very rewarding."

DONNA A GONER!

The EastEnders exodus continues...

The bants just won't be the same on Walford market, following the news that gobby Donna is waving goodbye to Albert Square.

Actress Lisa Hammond has decided to quit the soap, four years after landing the role of the sassy stallholder...

"It's been so great to play Donna," shares the star, whose feisty alter ego immediately struck up a fierce rivalry with the likes of Kat and Bianca. "I've made lifelong friends on the show and will really miss the brilliant cast and crew, who have always been a pleasure to work with. I look forward to what the future brings."

A spokesperson for the soap has confirmed Lisa's departure, which comes off the back of a huge cast shake-up including the exits of big-name stars such as Richard Blackwood (Vincent), Jenna Russell (Michelle) and Lee Ryan (Woody).

Rana & Zeedan reunited?

KATE IS A JEALOUS WOMAN AS HER GIRLFRIEND COSIES UP TO HER EX...

The future of Rana and Kate's relationship is threatened this week – as Kate gets a touch of the green-eyed monster.

Rana is distraught following her family's failed attempt to kidnap her – and when she turns to her estranged hubby Zeedan after rejecting Kate's invitation to move in together, Kate is seething with jealousy...

"Kate and Rana's relationship might be out in the open, but there are still so many obstacles in their way," points out Faye Brookes, who plays Kate. "Kate forgets sometimes that Rana's still married, and that she still cares about Zeedan. So when Kate devotes all her time and attention to Rana, but doesn't always get the same back, it's upsetting for her."

After Kate's flatmate Alya announces that she's sick of living with the woman who wrecked her brother's marriage, Kate suggests Alya moves back home with Zeedan while Rana moves in with her. But with the Habeebs having cut all financial ties with Zeedan as well as their daughter, Rana feels responsible – and rejects Kate's offer of living together.

Meanwhile, Zeedan and Rana are relieved when she persuades her brother Imran to invest in Zeedan's new restaurant, Speed Daal – but Kate isn't happy at all.

"She sees Zeedan hugging Rana in the Bistro," reveals Faye. "He's just thanking her for getting Imran on board, but Kate doesn't understand why Rana has her brother helping Zeedan when she's been trying to separate herself from him. Why is she still playing wifey? She doesn't want Rana giving Zeedan any false hope."

There's further upset when Rana's father Hassan turns up and reveals her mother Saira has been arrested on kidnap charges – and he accuses his daughter of calling the police. Insisting she would never do so, Rana points the finger at Zeedan – but it's not long before the real identity of the whistle-blower is revealed, and Rana is knocked for six.

OUR FAVOURITE RECENT SOAP QUOTES...

(On Robert)
"The man's a machine, isn't he?"

"Yeah, it's no wonder Michelle walked out on ya."
It's funny because it's true, Steve!

"He found me one night, off duty, paid me just to talk. Said he had this flat I could stay in, said that he'd put a roof over my head, I'd get back on my feet, I'd go back to school – and I was so desperate, I didn't even ask him why. I was so young and stupid, I actually thought he wanted to help me. The first night there, he raped me. He raped me. But I thought I was lucky because there was heating, food in the fridge and a telly. I told myself it was okay, and that I wasn't worth any better."

The insights into Charity's teenage years have been wonderfully written and powerfully played.

"The question is: How do we stop this from turning into one of Phil's decade-long feuds?"

"Has he even got a decade left in him?"

"Carla, if you ever need another kidney, just ask me. Cos if you get a whole factory in return, hook me up right now! Oh, I'm only saying what everyone else is thinking!"

Plain-speaking Jenny is the best Jenny.

"You need to toughen up, Angie. You need to watch a film called The Baby. It's about this woman who keeps her husband in a play pen. And as the poster said, what went on in that nursery, it wasn't for kids."

Every day, we know a little bit more about Mary. Sometimes we're comforted. Sometimes we're worried.

"He was just checking she was comfortable on the camp bed."

That's our new favourite euphemism. Though nobody has checked our camp bed for months.

"What was Grandad asking Misty last night? She kept saying yes over and over, really loud."

right to be optimistic – and is Kate and Rana's romance really at risk?

"Knowing Zeedan and Rana have been together really ruffles Kate's feathers – she's good old-fashioned jealous," admits Faye. "Rana is the love of her life, and Kate doesn't appreciate her leading Zeedan on – even more so because the two of them are still married. That breaks Kate's heart..."

"Imagine how frustrating this is for Esther and Nancy – while they know full well what Darcy is up to, she's always one step ahead of them!" cackles our Hollyoaks insider. "Trying to outwit the village's biggest schemer is a tough feat, and sadly these ladies are just too nice to truly get one over on such a wicked woman."

Nevertheless, with Jack and Darcy's wedding imminent, the Osbornes know time is running out to oust the minx from their midst. So, determined to show Jack that Darcy doesn't really love him, they enlist her former fiancé Adam to prove what they are saying about her is true.

Their plan is to make it look as if Darcy is set to cheat on Jack with her ex – after all, who could resist the dishy Donovan? So Esther and Nancy set up a hidden camera in the living room and hide themselves away as Adam swings into action!

He's also keen to expose his lying ex, and embraces the ruse with gusto. He's soon 'accidentally' spilled something on his top, prompting him to whip it off – and judging by our pic, Darcy just can't keep her hands off that ripped torso!

"Let's not forget that Darcy had real feelings for Adam," notes our spy. "When he's offering himself to her on a plate, it's a tough proposition to turn down! However, we've learned not to underestimate Darcy – so don't be surprised if she manages to worm her way out of it once more..."

Chloe's web of lies snares unwitting Arshad

ARSHAD AND MASOOD FACE A TERRIFYING ORDEAL...

There's a nightmare in store for foster-parent Arshad this week – after baby Harley is taken while in his care!

He and wife Mariam have been entrusted with the well-being of the youngster, who has been removed from his parents' custody. However, when Mariam goes away for a few days, Arshad and nephew Masood are left holding the fort – and the baby. That's when the trouble begins...

"A woman called Chloe arrives in Walford, but she's there under false pretences," reveals our Square snoop. "She bumps into Arshad and pretends to be injured so that he'll take her in to help. Once she's inside the house, though, it's clear Chloe has engineered this meeting so she can get close to Harley – because she's the baby's mum!"

Arshad realises something is amiss, but can't quite figure out what Chloe is hiding. After he relays his fears to Masood, the two men decide to take action by installing extra security around their home. However, Arshad later discovers the CCTV has been vandalised, and insists they tell both social services and the police what's going on. But he also maintains that Masood must keep quiet about the situation if Mariam rings again.

Chloe is delighted to see her son again

Any notion that this might be an overreaction is dispelled the next day, when Arshad realises Harley is missing. The baby has been snatched by his parents, Chloe and Bijan!

"Arshad can't understand how they knew where baby

Harley was – until it's revealed that Tiffany posted a picture with Harley on social media!" explains our source. "He goes mad at her and tells her that she'll be to blame if they can't find the little'un. It's a horrible predicament for everyone."

How did they know where Harley was? Tiffany posted a pic!"

Keanu works on Chloe and Bijan's car, oblivious to their intentions

Thankfully, the police are able to locate Harley, and Arshad prays social services won't hold him responsible for what's happened. All he wants is a second chance to give the baby a good home, and for Mariam to see that he can be trusted.

Social services eventually agree that Arshad wasn't at fault – but will he and Masood be forced to share the ordeal with Mariam upon her return?

Get out, Billy!

BILLY'S BACK FROM REHAB, BUT HIS TROUBLES AREN'T OVER...

Tracy refuses to consider Billy staying in her property...

And not even Shona's kind offer to help out can change her mind

Recovery addict Billy arrives back on the Street with a bump this week – as callous Tracy turfs him out.

She's the landlord of the flat that Billy shares with Summer, and Billy's failed to pay the rent for three months. Clearly there are extenuating circumstances, but Tracy decides she doesn't want him as a tenant, and is brutal in telling him so. What will Billy and Summer do now?

"As a fragile recovering drug user, Billy needs patience and understanding – only for Tracy to label him a 'junkie' and kick him out!" reveals our cobbles snitch. "We thought Tracy had got a bit nicer of late, but she doesn't care that Billy has been to hell and back, and any warmth she felt for Todd won't change her stance. As far as she's concerned, Billy and Summer can do one!"

This is a major setback for Billy, who is desperate to get Tracy to change her mind. Given all Summer has been through with losing her dad Drew and then Todd deserting them, she needs stability, and Billy can't bear the thought of letting her down again. It's a horrible situation as the lass excitedly packs her suitcase so they can move back in together – with Billy steeled to break her heart once more.

The only way to start getting back on their feet is for Billy to find some instant cash. Unfortunately, he sold everything of worth to buy drugs, and he has no job at the moment either. So in a desperate bid to raise some funds, he goes to see Adam to find out if Todd was owed any wages before he disappeared.

"Tracy labels fragile Billy a 'junkie' and kicks him out!"

Furious Adam tells him to sling his hook, and Billy is sincerely apologetic about everything he's done to wrong the Barlows in the past. But that doesn't solve his problem – and it falls to Shona to come up with a solution...

"Following her split with David, Shona's looking for a home now too," shares our informant. "She suggests that she could move in with Billy and Summer, and act as guarantor to assuage Tracy's doubts. It's the perfect solution – but Tracy won't have a bar of it. As far as she's concerned, it's just not her problem."

Can Billy find a way to get Tracy to let him stay, and also get his relationship with Summer back on track?

Is Mike really Mr Right?

LIZ MAY HAVE HER EYE ON A DIFFERENT MAN...

Romance is in the air for Liz this week, as Mike takes her out on a date. Is he the man for her, though?

Mike is single, handsome and intelligent, and he certainly enjoys flirting. Liz has been lapping up the attention, but when they go for a meal at the Bistro, she's given food for thought. Although Mike is great company and showering her with attention, Liz keeps getting distracted by Johnny!

While she and Johnny are mates, there's always been a bit of a spark between them – and since Jenny despatched Liz to help convince Johnny to make the move to Spain as soon as possible, they've become closer. Moira spots the connection between them after Johnny comes into the medical centre, and begins to tease Liz about having feelings for him – only for furious Liz to deny it. Moira has hit a nerve, though – so when Mike invites her out again, Liz accepts.

Another night of fine dining and wine would be perfect, but this time Mike wants to take Liz to the cinema to see a high-brow film. With Moira looking on, Liz goes much further than just saying yes – she fakes being keen on Mike's choice!

It all seems like harmless romantic antics on the face of it – but is Liz dating Mr Wrong simply because Mr Right is already taken?

Tragedy for the Spencers!

A SHOCK DEATH DEVASTATES THE FAMILY – AND EXPOSES A SHOCKING SECRET...

Devastating news reaches the Spencer clan this week – as Daz reveals that Ali has died suddenly.

It's been a while since Dan's ex-wife left Emmerdale to start a new life in Liverpool following the death of her wife Ruby, but she's kept in touch because of children Sean and Amelia. So after shaken Daz turns up and reveals that Ali has gone, it's a horrible shock to everyone – not least her heartbroken daughter Amelia...

"It's the sort of news that nobody wants to have to break," shares our Dales spy. "This is the second tragedy to hit the family – it's only a couple of years since Ruby was killed in the helicopter crash. Having to tell Amelia that her mum is dead is awful, and she's shattered."

When Dan arrives home, he's horrified to see his daughter in a terrible state. Tearful Amelia explains that Uncle Daz says her mum has died, and Dan is shaken to realise they've lost Ali. Filled with pain and grief, Dan can't stop his anger rising at Daz for telling Amelia without waiting for him to return. So as Dan agrees to plan the funeral for Ali, he's fuming at his brother's irresponsibility.

The atmosphere continues to be terrible as the two struggle to get along. With all the stress and heartache at home, Daz heads to the Woolie to drown his sorrows, then begins to pour his heart out to Kerry – but she's going to wish he hadn't!

"Daz is nursing a massive secret that could destroy the Spencers forever," reveals our informant. "He blurts it out drunkenly to Kerry, and she's rocked to her foundations. Worse still, she knows that he's told her something that Dan doesn't know, so now she's hiding it from him too. Keeping Daz's secret could protect the rest of the family, but if they discover it and find out that Kerry knew, it could ruin everything."

In the midst of their grief, Dan and Amelia have no idea that Daz is sitting on a bombshell that would devastate them all. Now Kerry has to decide if she can keep his secret, or whether it's time to tell everybody the truth...

Jimmy's sex therapy!

CAN MISTY HELP WITH HIS PERFORMANCE ANXIETY?

Jimmy receives a proposal he can't refuse this week – as Rodney's game girlfriend Misty offers to help spice up his sex life!

Nicola's harassed hubby has been struggling to perform in the bedroom, and has even resorted to buying dodgy Viagra pills online to try to satisfy his wife's rampant appetites. But with the pair's options running out, Misty offers to lend a helping hand...

"Poor Jimmy!" despairs our Dales mole. "Misty isn't the sort of girl to take no for an answer, so he ends up just going along with it."

Jimmy's humiliation threshold is tested as he tries to avoid Nicola's advances, and Rodney senses the tension between them. Of course, it doesn't take long for randy Rod to work out what's going on – causing Jimmy to storm off.

That's when Misty steps in, offering her services to Jimmy as a self-proclaimed sex therapist! But as she leads the flummoxed fella upstairs, just what sort of 'therapy' is Misty proposing?

"It's fair to assume Nicola will react badly!" chuckles our snitch. "Don't forget, the situation is mortifying for her too. She's worried that Jimmy doesn't fancy her any more. So if Misty manages to, ahem, get a rise out of him, what will that say to Nicola?"

It seems Nicola has already made up her mind as she gives Jimmy a hard time following his session with Misty. However, as Jimmy tries to explain some of Misty's techniques, can he persuade his mardy missus that she has no reason to feel threatened? And has Jimmy's new love doctor managed to cure his issues between the sheets?

Kat's cleaning con!

KAT STEALS FROM MEL – THEN ROBS LINDA TO PAY HER BACK...

Kat and co get a cleaning trial at the Vic – and use it to steal the Carters' booze!

Kat and Mo are on the lookout for work this week – and end up playing off Mel and Linda against each other!

Nan and granddaughter are still attempting to raise cash to pay off their debts, and go to Mel to see if she'll give them the cleaning job at E20.

Although she has some nagging doubts about the idea, Mel agrees to give Kat and Mo a chance. But once they're alone in the club, the pair help themselves to a few drinks while they're on the job!

"Kat and Mo really are two of a kind," sighs our Walford source. "It's only their first day working at the club, and they're already taking liberties! Of course, Mel's no fool, and she instantly realises what the two of them have been up to. As soon as she uncovers their boozy antics, she fires them on the spot! It's really no less than they deserve, to be honest. What were they thinking?"

The next morning, ashamed Kat begs Mel for a second chance. However, Mel tells her that before she'll even think about taking them back, they'll have to replace all of the drink they stole – and even then, she's not promising anything. In the end, Kat swallows her pride and sheepishly agrees to comply with Mel's terms.

"When it comes down to it, Kat and Mo desperately need the money – it's as simple as that!" insists our gossip. "But Kat has come up with a plan. She's detected the simmering rivalry between Mel and Linda, and decides to use it to her advantage by persuading Linda to give her and Mo a cleaning trial at the Vic.

Tiffany sent home?

BIANCA WANTS HER DAUGHTER TO COME BACK TO MILTON KEYNES...

Tiffany's time in Albert Square could come to an abrupt end this week, as her mother Bianca makes it clear that she wants her back with her in Milton Keynes!

Tiff's sister Whitney is devastated by this turn of events, and desperately tries to think of a way to persuade Bianca to change her mind.

"Whitney is really upset, as she doesn't want her little sister to leave," our Square mole tells us. "Whit's had so much instability in her life, so she's really enjoyed having Tiff around for a while – but now it suddenly looks as though she'll be forced away again! Whitney confides in her friend Stacey about the awkward situation – but she's dismayed when Stacey instead sides with Bianca, agreeing that it's time for Tiffany to leave!"

Meanwhile, unaware of all this talk going on behind her back, Tiff is plotting revenge against Louise. She's got hold of a photo of Louise and Hunter kissing, and posts it on social media for everyone to see.

"Tiff is still furious at Louise for picking on Bernadette," reveals our snitch. "She wants to take Louise down a peg or two, so she posts the photo. But when everyone sees the picture, it leads to an argument in the street – forcing Whitney and Sharon to intervene! When she sees just how much of a loose cannon Tiff is, Whit has second thoughts, and wonders if maybe Stacey has a point. Whitney even tells Sharon that perhaps Tiffany would be better off back in Milton Keynes with Bianca after all..."

Unfortunately, Tiff overhears this exchange, and realises that if she doesn't do something quickly, she'll have to go. She tries to butter up Whitney by arranging a romantic video-call date for her and Halfway – but is it too little, too late?

WRONG SIDE OF THE TRACKS

I was amused to hear that the new Slater girl, Hayley, comes from the 'rough' side of the family – as if Kat, Mo and the rest of them are all really prim and proper! I've not been sure about Hayley up till now, so let's hope more of her side of the clan don't come to Walford.

PLOT DIVIDE

With David's rape in Corrie, and Jack P Shepherd's typically strong performance, it got me to thinking how and why certain characters get given plots. Would this have worked just as well with Tyrone, or Seb, or Chesney? I think important stories like this need a big family or network of relationships to deal with the fallout, or it might look a bit hollow. It's just a shame that the Platts have had a big sexual abuse storyline recently.

together made me really nostalgic for the show's 80s heyday. I wonder who the soap will bring back next?

📍 | Jasmine, Coventry

I was disappointed there were no scenes of Jane with Clive – that would be the perfect time to resurrect the gorilla suit!

Just like us on Valentine's Day, there's not been a Rose in sight recently!

WITHERING ROSE

I'm seriously concerned for the whereabouts of Rose in Hollyoaks. Where has she been the whole time Tegan has been in hospital? There's been no mention of her from Leela and she hasn't been with Ste's little'uns – so just like this time last year, poor Rose has simply been forgotten about. Bad writing from Hollyoaks.

📍 | Natasha

With Dee Dee seriously ill, surely it's only a matter of time before we see Rose again...

CRY ME A RIVER

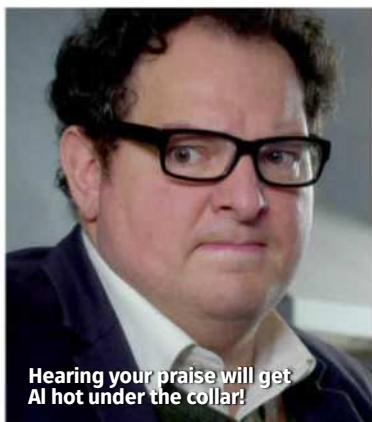

I used to love the original River Boys when they first came into Home and Away, but this new incarnation of the gang is not to my taste. They seem like a bunch of thugs with no redeeming features – I can't imagine that Brax would be too happy with them!

📍 | Lisa

I'm quite intrigued by newcomer Colby and how he fits in with them...

The River Boys operate a strict no-sleeves policy

Hearing your praise will get Al hot under the collar!

BE AL AND END AL

Doctors is a great programme, which covers modern issues with great empathy. My favourite doctor is Al Haskey, who is coping with his mother's dementia admirably. Well done to the scriptwriters – this storyline is so sympathetically written, it pulls at the heart strings.

📍 | Linda, Sheffield

I'm more of a Daniel fan myself – although I wouldn't want to get on the wrong side Zara!

SIMON SAYS...

I'm absolutely appalled by Simon Barlow's unruly behaviour in Coronation Street at the moment. He needs to be straightened out quick smart! Is there some long-lost relative he can go and stay with for a while so his poor family can have a break from him?

📍 | Mads

Corrie star Georgia Taylor (Toyah) tells us on p36 that Si's behaviour is set to get worse...

PHIL'S BATTY

Was Phil Mitchell barging into E20 waving round a baseball bat meant to be scary? Because I just couldn't stop laughing at those scenes! He was like some kind of pantomime villain gone rogue. You could tell how much fun actor Steve McFadden had filming that!

📍 | LJ

I'm with you, LJ! I just couldn't take 'macho Phil' seriously at all!

CHARITY'S SHOCKING SECRET

We knew that Charity had a dark past, but even we weren't prepared for the bombshell she dropped on Vanessa when she revealed her abuse agony. And sadly, there could be more to come...

Charity is one of my favourite characters in soap, so I was pleased to see her at the heart of such a huge plot. While I do love to laugh out loud at her horrible insults, she's also the kind of character who you can do these really gritty, emotional plots with too.

📍 | Kurt

I really felt for Charity when she opened up to Vanessa about the abuse she suffered at the hands of creepy cop Bails. We always think of Charity as being hard as nails, but this just goes to show that there are reasons why she is that way. And hats off to star Emma Atkins for her moving portrayal of this plot.

📍 | Maureen

I'm really intrigued to find out more about the baby Charity obviously gave birth to as a result of her abuse.

What became of him? Could he be someone in the village that we have already met? That's the kind of thing that normally happens in soap.

📍 | Joanie, Huddersfield

I'm sure we'll find out more soon – but some of you are more worried for Charity's relationship with Vanessa...

What Vanessa did – calling the police to report Charity's abuse behind her back – was bang out of order. But her actions came from a place of love, and you can tell that she really does care about Charity. Seeing them together warms my heart, so I do hope that they can sort things out before it's too late.

📍 | Julie

I agree – Vanessa is exactly what Charity needs right now.

I'm confused by the Home and Away plot about Roo's mum Martha being alive – didn't we previously see flashbacks to her death?

THE BIG interview

“If I was Toyah’s friend, I wouldn’t let her do this!”

As her character struggles to keep her fibs under control, cobbles actress Georgia Taylor is predicting heartbreak for stressed Toyah...

CORONATION STREET | ITV FRIDAY

“Toyah’s web of lies is so immense now that I struggle to keep up with everything!” chuckles Corrie star Georgia Taylor, as she joins us for a chat about her alter ego’s ever mounting tall tales. “I honestly can’t remember the last scene I filmed where she wasn’t telling a lie! But it’s not out of any malice – Toyah is just someone who’s really desperate, and completely heartbroken that she can’t have a child of her own.”

Sadly for Toyah, it looks as though her lies could be rumbled this week, because her partner’s wicked son Simon has overheard some of her secret conversations with Eva – and is attempting to blackmail her! So while we settle in for a proper natter with Georgia, we can’t help but wonder whether Toyah will be clever enough to outsmart the teenager and stop Peter from finding out what she and Eva have really been plotting...

Simon is a thorn in Toyah’s side. What does she think he knows?

Well, Toyah isn’t sure exactly what he’s heard, but she realises it’s something to do with the deal she’s struck with Eva. Simon basically says, “I know you and Eva have got a secret, and it’s something you don’t want my dad to know”. He doesn’t go into specifics, but in a way that’s scarier because Toyah doesn’t know what he knows and what he doesn’t. She doesn’t want to risk antagonising him – so she’s in a compromising situation.

How does Toyah go about dealing with Simon’s demands?

There comes a point where she decides to bite the bullet and tell Peter that she’s having issues with Simon and his behaviour. She’s spurred on by Eva, who says to her, “Look, if Simon really knew anything, then he would have said it by now”. Eva encourages her to call Simon’s bluff – and even though Toyah is terrified, she goes with it.

Georgia on...

HER SCREEN SISTERS

“We do get a lot of positive comments from viewers whenever there are scenes with Toyah, Leanne and Eva together. I notice a huge surge in my social media during those episodes, and I know it’s the same for Catherine and Jane too. People really respond well to these women, which is great because I love working with the two of them. I’m so gutted that Cath is going soon.”

PHOTOS: INSTAGRAM/AMITTEATH7

“Simon’s behaviour will get worse – but he’s not despicable in real life!”

Georgia on...

THE FEISTY SIDE OF TOYAH!

"There's been the odd moment, like the stuff with Leanne at crazy Chloe's house, and I think it shows that Toyah has Battersby running through her veins – there will always be a hint of that. I don't feel we've seen much of it lately because she's just so vulnerable right now. But it will be interesting to see when we come out the other side of this story whether we can build her back up and make her stronger."

So Toyah makes a confession?

Well, she tells Peter that Simon's been blackmailing her – but she basically has to create a fake secret that she can claim to Peter is the thing Simon is holding over her! She pitches it quite well and tells him that she's paid for Eva's beauty course in America using their money. Peter is disappointed that she went behind his back, but it's not a betrayal that he can't forgive.

Simon is being a complete nightmare at the moment! Would you say Toyah has any maternal feelings towards him at all?

I don't know. I think what's difficult is that their relationship has been strained from the start, because Simon was the first one to find out about her and Peter, and tried to blackmail them. So they've had a lot of ups and downs. There have been moments where she's been the cool stepmum, and I think Simon has realised that Toyah's a bit more of a pushover than Leanne is.

We would have thought that dealing with Simon would put off Toyah having kids completely!

Oh God, I know! And Simon's behaviour is only going to get worse. But I do just have to state that we love Alex Bain [Simon] and he's doing such a good job of playing a despicable teenager. He's not like that at all in real life!

But it's not just Simon's tantrums that are weighing heavily on Toyah's mind – there's the small matter of her plan to pass off Eva's baby as her own!

Georgia on...

HER CORRIE HEROES

"I love watching David Neilson, who plays Roy, because I think he's a master at what he does. What's amazing is that he never breaks character – in the sense that you will never see a scene where he's not 100 per cent Roy Cropper, even if he's in the background reacting to something. His attention to detail and his commitment to that character is astonishing – he's just brilliant."

It's a plot that can only end in tears, and even Georgia admits that she was shocked when she found out what path her alter ego would be going down...

How did you react when you heard about Toyah and Eva's baby pact?

I thought it was absolutely bonkers! But Toyah is in quite a vulnerable place right now, because having a baby is all she's ever wanted. The thing with soaps is that the drama comes out of characters making decisions that aren't rational and aren't what you would expect. And I don't think any rational person is going to think that this could ever work – it's quite a hare-brained scheme by anyone's standards!

How worried is Toyah that Eva will change her mind about the baby?

Until she's got that baby in her arms, Toyah will never be entirely certain it's going to go her way. She's sympathetic and sensitive enough to understand that carrying a baby for nine months is a big deal, and who can say how Eva's going to feel after she's given birth? So there are moments where Toyah thinks it's all going to pan out, and she's feeling very joyful and hopeful – and then there are moments when she's doubting whether or not this can work.

What advice would you give Toyah if you were her BFF?

I would never have let her get into this situation in the first place! I think

Georgia on...

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

"People loved Toyah and [her ex] Spider together, and I adored being with Martin Hancock, who played him, and Eileen Derbyshire [aka Spider's Auntie Emily]. She's the most fantastic woman, really intelligent and razor-sharp witty. Working with them were some of my happiest times on the show."

think we should have this woman who's been through seven rounds of IVF suddenly have a miracle baby.

Do you think Toyah and Peter's relationship can survive this?

It's quite a big ask for them, isn't it? I love working with Chris [Gascoyne, who plays Peter] – we have an absolute hoot together, so I wouldn't want that to stop. But it's a big mountain for Toyah and Peter to climb.

Who else in the cast are you enjoying working with?

Well, of course Jane [Danson, aka Leanne], because she's my best friend. It's amazing that I get to spend so much time with her now. The funny thing is that we'll spend all day on set together, but as soon as we break, we'll be like, "Shall we go and get a coffee?". As if we've not seen each other all day! And I have to add Cath [Tyldesley, who plays Eva] in there too, because the three of us have become so close, and it's lovely.

Is there anyone in Corrie that you'd love to have more scenes with?

I'm really good friends with Jennie McAlpine, but we never get to work together at all because Toyah and Fiz – despite the fact they used to be flatmates – are never in scenes together. It's weird. Also, I do occasionally get to work with Patti [Clare, aka Mary] when I'm in scenes with the Appletons, but I would just love to film with her all day long – I think she's incredible!

Sarah Ellis

Double double Toyah and trouble: Leanne's sisters are hiding two massive secrets from her confronted her grief, so there's a lot of stuff that still needs to be resolved.

How have the viewers reacted to this plot?

People think it's a bit crazy and bonkers. I don't believe there's anyone out there going, "This is a fantastic idea!". The sense I'm getting from viewers on social media is that they just think this isn't going to end well.

Would you like to see Toyah with a baby? Or do you think it's more realistic if she doesn't have a child?

I've always felt we need to tell the story of these women who sadly will never have a child – because not everything is a fairy tale, and people don't always get a happy ending. And whatever happens with regards to the surrogacy and Eva, I feel very strongly that Toyah herself should never become pregnant. I don't what's actually really sad about it – and this will be dealt with later down the line – is that Toyah hasn't properly grieved for the baby that she's lost. The surrogate miscarried Toyah and Peter's biological child, and Toyah's just thrown herself into this crazy plan with Eva. I don't think she's really

Georgia on...

HER ON-SCREEN MAN

"Chris Gascoyne [Peter] makes me laugh a lot! He's so sweet, and sometimes he can be very childlike in the most endearing way. You wouldn't think he was a 50-year-old man because he's just so cute! Me and Jane tease him all the time, but it's done with total affection and love, because we adore him."

THE BAD WIFE

EMMA SAMMS BRINGS A TOUCH OF HOLLYWOOD GLAMOUR TO LETHERBRIDGE, AS A FACE FROM THE PAST RETURNS...

Amanda left under a cloud last time – and deservedly so!” admits Emma Samms, as she joins us to discuss her alter ego Amanda Vardalis’ shock return to Letherbridge this week. “But hopefully by the time she goes this time around, the audience will understand her behaviour – and have a bit more sympathy for her...”

There’s certainly a big surprise in store for Amanda’s ex-husband Jimmi – who has no idea that she’s about to walk back into his life! And former Dynasty star Emma couldn’t be happier about returning to The Mill after 12 years away...

We’re very excited to have you back at Doctors, Emma! Were you expecting to return?

No! I wasn’t expecting it, and I said I’d be thrilled to come back – but only if I got to work with Adrian [Lewis Morgan, who plays Jimmi] again, because I have such incredibly fond memories of working with him. I describe him as my ‘Goldilocks’ co-star, because he’s got just the right amount of fun and professionalism and talent. We have a massive laugh!

Amanda left Jimmi in 2005 after falsely claiming that she had been diagnosed with cancer. So is she back in Letherbridge to make amends?

Amanda is actually in a very desperate place, and she needs help. Initially she arrives just wanting to see how Jimmi is doing – she chooses not to let him know she’s back straight away. She doesn’t want to go barging in if it would be massively inappropriate for her to show up. That’s her motivation, anyway – but of course it all ends up going horribly wrong...

Did it take you long to get back into Amanda’s character after all this time?

Weirdly, no! Because there’s been such a long gap, she didn’t have to be exactly the same as she was when we last saw her. I certainly remembered everything that had happened before, but I think that we’d all be a bit different after 12 years.

With Adrian being the only cast member remaining from your previous Doctors run, were you nervous on your first day back on set?

Well, Adrian wasn’t around on my first day! But I immediately felt very comfortable. The Doctors team is a really lovely group of people who are incredibly welcoming. It all felt very familiar, and I can genuinely say it’s the most I’ve enjoyed acting in a very long time.

You’re still remembered for playing Fallon Carrington Colby in Dynasty during the 80s. How does Doctors compare to working on a show like Dynasty?

Dynasty was the ultimate show back then. We had to look immaculate all day, every day! Every bit of our body that was on camera had make-up on it – in fact, there was a person whose job was exclusively body make-up. And having to look good at all times can be exhausting, to be honest! Amanda is quite glamorous, but nowhere near the level of Dynasty.

Do you still get recognised a lot – and do you mind being approached?

In the US I still get recognised for General Hospital [in which Emma played Holly Sutton Scorpio] and Dynasty – but in the UK, where I’m living now, it’s more exclusively Dynasty. British people are much less likely to say anything, though – whereas in America I can suddenly get a massive hug from somebody! But I don’t mind it at all. You’d be in the wrong profession if it were an issue.

How do you hope life in Letherbridge will pan out for Amanda this time?

Amanda is in a very desperate place – she needs help!

A Clay to remember: Emma films opposite her co-star Adrian Lewis Morgan (Jimmi)

Take it to the Letherbridge: Emma had a ball returning to the Doctors fold

Been through The Mill:
Desperate Amanda returns to the surgery in need of help

I don't want to give away too much of the story, but it's a very different sort of visit from last time – the writers have done it very well, and I've really enjoyed it. There are no clichés to Amanda at all. She's unusual, she's complicated and she's troubled – and that's good fun to play.

Would you like it if she were to stick around in the long term?

Well, when they asked me to do a six-week stint, it seemed the perfect amount of time. But you're asking me on my last day on set and I'm feeling really sad about leaving! I've loved being here, and I would definitely be open to coming back again. There are many reasons why Amanda might return, so you never know!

Allison Jones

MEDICAL emergency!

Having worked on several hospital dramas – as patient Elizabeth Woods in Holby City in 2003, in a similar 2011 guest stint in Casualty, as well as her long-running role in General Hospital – Emma admits that she's keen to don a stethoscope of her own one day...

"One of the frustrations of my career is that I've never played a medical person!" wails the London-born 57-year-old. "And it's funny, because I do actually have a minor medical qualification. I studied to be an emergency medical technician when I was living in Los Angeles, just because I thought that it would be a useful tool in my real life.

"But I've never had the opportunity to use my qualification in any of the hospital shows that I've acted in," continues Emma. "I could get my tongue around all of those tricky medical terms very easily – I'm just putting that out there. Hopefully there's still time for me to use it!"

Crying shame: Charity reveals to Vanessa what happened to her as a teenager

EMMERDALE | ITV THURSDAY

EMMA ATKINS
EXPLAINS WHY
NAVIGATING HER WAY THROUGH
CHARITY'S TORTURED
PAST WAS NO WALK
IN THE PARK...

“You’ll finally find out why Charity is the person she is...”

Honestly? I was nervous as hell,” admits actress Emma Atkins, as she joins Inside Soap on the Woolpack set to chat about her alter ego Charity’s troubled past. “There were monologues to learn where I was delving deeply into her history. It wasn’t pretty, and actually very upsetting.

“Having said that, it was all so beautifully written, and a dream for me to learn. It was nice for the audience to finally be given a reason why Charity behaves the way that she does.”

We’d come to accept over the years that Charity is an out-and-out bitch, no two ways about it. However, heartbreaking scenes recently unveiled a different side to her, as Charity explained to girlfriend Vanessa that she was raped by a police officer – today known as DI Bails – when she was just a teenager and working as a prostitute.

Viewers went on to discover that Charity is hiding a massive baby secret (see right), setting the stage for a huge story that starts to play out this week – as former call girl Tracy takes a shine to the man at the root of Charity’s nightmare.

“Tracy has been asked by Bails to be the face of his campaign to take care of sex workers, and she is so flattered to be part of a wonderful project,” says Emma. “Tracy thinks Bails is fantastic – much to Charity’s dismay, as of course she knows that he is a total liar.

“Charity decides to approach Bails and tell him to stay away from Tracy,” continues the star. “It’s very brave, actually, but he fronts it out by insisting that no one is going to believe her ‘sordid little lies’. That’s when we see his true colours, and the fear that he manages to instil in Charity.”

Skip Bails: Tracy doesn't know what she could be getting into, but Charity does

Charity and Vanessa seemed such a random pairing, but they really work

Dreadful DI: Charity musters the bravery to warn off Bails

It remains to be seen whether Charity will find the courage to speak out, but the one saving grace is her blossoming relationship with Vanessa. Their surprise romance has proven to be a hit on screen and off, and Emma is delighted.

“Teenage girls tell us that they are crazy for the story – I can’t believe it!” exclaims the 43-year-old mum-of-one. “Charity and Vanessa seemed such a random pairing, so I thought people would say, ‘This is too unbelievable’.

But why should it be? There are too many social constraints these days, so it’s lovely that so many viewers have said that they like it. “When Michelle [Hardwick, who plays Vanessa] and I learned there would be a lesbian storyline for us both, it appeared to come from nowhere,” adds Emma. “I didn’t believe it would work myself, to be honest, as I thought Charity was just going to be a vehicle to bring out Vanessa’s sexuality. But I think the bosses saw something they liked, and it’s turned into something meaningful.”

While the journey into Charity’s past is sure to bring out a softer side to her, Emma is confident that her alter ego’s acid tongue will continue to amuse us in the same way it always has.

“I love playing someone so far removed from my own personality,” she grins. “In real life I wouldn’t dream of talking to people the way Charity does, so it’s quite cathartic to act it out! I’m so lucky with the writing, as there could come a point where people think, ‘We’ve had enough now’ and ‘How long will it be before her shelf life runs out?’.

“I’m sure that time will come, but I’m fortunate to be blessed with such good dialogue and humour, which is important if you’re playing a bitch. Laughter is the perfect tonic!”

Laura-Jayne Tyler

BABY MYSTERY!

What is the secret behind the box?

Charity’s revelations shed light on a whole new part of her life – and that’s a lot to absorb when you think you know a character inside out after 20 years!

The biggest shock was when we witnessed tearful Charity reach for a hidden box of memorabilia with items that belonged to – or were intended for – a newborn baby boy. Are we set to learn that she fell pregnant with Bails’ son after he raped her?

“Charity’s confession to Vanessa was just the start of a huge story set to play out over the course of this year, with Emma Atkins taking centre stage,” teases our Dales spy. “Secrets from the past come back to haunt Charity in more ways than one, with her revelation about Bails just the tip of the iceberg as the truth of her baby bombshell eventually explodes. Can Charity find the courage to finally confront her demons?”

We know that the ordeal with Bails happened after Debbie was born – so if Charity’s son exists, he’ll only be a couple of years younger than her daughter. One way or another, Charity is in for a hell of a year...

10 totally true FACTS about... Natalie J Robb

YOUR InsideSoap BRIEFING ON THE WOMAN BEHIND EMMERDALE'S MOIRA...

1 Natalie Joy Robb was born on 3 December 1974 in North Lanarkshire in Scotland, the youngest of three children. She had early ambitions to become an actress, and attended the Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Drama as a child, being presented with the BBC Young Entertainer of the Year award on Saturday morning kids' show Going Live! in 1988.

2 Natalie made her Emmerdale debut as Moira in 2009, introduced as one of five members of the Barton family, with hubby John (James Thornton) and their children Adam (Adam Thomas), Holly (Sophie Powles) and Hannah (Grace Cassidy). Although seeming to have the perfect marriage, Moira soon embarked on a steamy affair with Cain Dingle in 2011. The pair later married in 2014, after John's death, and Moira gave birth to their son Isaac in 2017. That same year it was revealed that Moira had killed psychotic Emma Barton – but although Natalie was worried that this might end her time on the show, she recently signed a new contract. Phew!

3 Natalie is quite a soap superstar, having played the role of Trish McDonald for the whole of the 90s in Scottish soap Take The High Road. She then spent four years as Dr Jude Carlyle in Doctors from 2001-04, and a couple of years as PC Andrea Dunbar in The Bill from 2004-05. She's also popped up in Holby City (2005), Waterloo Road (2009), and in three episodes of EastEnders in 2006, playing Gemma Clewes – one of naughty Max Branning's many mistresses! Erm... why no Corrie?

4 At the age of 21, Natalie left Scotland for London, taking her pet tarantula Bertha with her. "We didn't have anywhere to stay when I first arrived, so I slept in my car for a little while – with the heating on, of course, to keep Bertha warm!" revealed the star to a tabloid recently. "I had her for 25 years. She was completely lovely and not in the least scary!"

5 Natalie is very musical, having once been a member of two groups – The Kinky People and Absolutely. She even had a taste of pop stardom, releasing the single Keep Your Love with dance group Partizan. It spent a whole week in the UK singles chart at the dizzying heights of No 53 in December 1997.

8 Believe it or not, Natalie once played an action heroine! Just before taking on the role of Moira, Natalie starred in 2008 low-budget American action flick The Shepherd: Border Control, in which she won the heart of a former cop played by Jean-Claude Van Damme. So – where is the sequel?

6 Natalie is a huge fan of Celtic Football Club, and admits that as a child she used to love playing football with the boys – in fields full of cowpats. “I’d hang out with the boys because the girls were all into dressing up and putting on make-up, and I wasn’t interested,” she once explained. “I was a tomboy from my roots.”

7 Natalie is a big dog lover, and loves to unwind by walking her beloved pooch Bronson. The dog is a Japanese Akita-Rottweiler cross, and the actress claimed last year that he’s the love of her life as she doesn’t have time to go on any dates – despite picking up Inside Soap’s Sexiest Female gong at last year’s Awards!

9 Meat dishes are a definite no-no for Natalie – who became a vegetarian last year, as meat made her feel lethargic. She eats a bowl of porridge with honey for breakfast, and reckons that sets her up until lunchtime.

10 Natalie has revealed that she and co-star Jeff Hordley (Cain) like to slap each other’s bottoms in scenes, just to make their relationship seem more realistic! “You have to have a familiarity between the characters so that people believe they’re a couple,” Natalie told ITV’s This Morning. “We do have fun – we try things like I’ll slap his bum and he’ll slap me.” We’ll be watching them carefully from now on!

CRAZY in love!

HOLLYOAKS' LUKE JERDY
SPILLS THE BEANS ON JESSE'S
MESSY LOVE LIFE – AND FILLS US IN ON HIS OFF-SCREEN ROMANCE...

“ I never thought I would be jealous of a poster!” chuckles Hollyoaks star Luke Jerdy, aka lovely Donovan brother Jesse, as he joins us for a chat on the phone from the soap's set. We're discussing his real-life girlfriend Daisy Wood-Davis' current plot, in which her alter ego Kim is locked up in the derelict school with only a poster of 80s pop idol Rick Astley for company.

“Daisy put a picture of her with the poster up on Instagram, and everyone was commenting on it saying, ‘Oh Luke, you’ve got some competition!’ But that storyline has been so popular with viewers – Daisy’s had so much feedback from people. It’s like Castaway meets some kind of ridiculous comedy!”

But while Kim fights to stay alive, Jesse is fighting to convince the women in his life to give him another chance, after he was caught two-timing Courtney with Goldie! Happily, Luke assures us he’s nothing like that...

What does Daisy make of your two-timing antics on screen?

Ha ha, you’d have to ask her. We just discuss the comedy elements of it, and the ridiculous situation Jesse’s got himself into. Luckily, he’s very different from me!

Do you have any sympathy for Jesse?

I do feel sorry for Jesse, yes. He’s trying to please everyone, and he’s got himself into the situation where he just doesn’t know who he should pick. He knows he should be loyal to Courtney, of course, but there’s something quite exotic and sexy about Goldie, isn’t there?

Jesse tries to please everyone – he doesn’t know who he should pick

Who do you think he should choose?

He's better suited to Courtney. He loves her deep down – she's stable and loyal, and can provide him with the family he's always wanted. But he just really fancies Goldie!

Goldie pours a drink over Jesse this week – what was that like to film?

Luckily it was just over his shoes – I don't think I would have liked it if she'd poured it over his head! Chelsee [Healey, aka Goldie] was really nice about it and actually made sure she missed my shoes completely. She's good to me like that! Both Chelsee and Amy [Conachan, who plays Courtney] are brilliant to work with, and so much fun.

What would you like to see happen to hapless Jesse next?

I'd like for him to end up with Courtney so they could have a big Hollyoaks wedding! Of course it would all go horribly wrong – but in more of a farcical way than the whole thing ending in complete disaster!

Pride and groom!

Neighbours' Takaya Honda is rooting for David and Aaron to tie the knot...

There's good news for fans championing David and Aaron's romance, as the pair are finally back together this week! And as we catch up with star Takaya Honda (David) during his visit to the UK, he hints that there may even be a wedding on the cards...

It's great to see you on British soil! Have you had a lot of fans approaching you to talk about David and Aaron?

Yes – every second question has been, "When are you guys getting back together?"! It's so nice that the audience is behind us as a couple. It's a real tribute to the show's hard work in developing the storylines.

There's been a lot of talk about David and Aaron having the first gay wedding on Australian TV. How would you feel about that?

Both me and Matty [Wilson, who plays Aaron] are banging down the producers' doors to make that happen! It would be such a wonderful thing for both David and Aaron, and a huge thing for Neighbours. And for me personally it would be very exciting to be one of the grooms.

What was it like for you to come in as part of the Robinson clan?

You can't really ask for more. I'm super-honoured. And the fans have been so supportive, even though Paul has had so many long-lost kids!

What's it like working with Stefan Dennis, who plays Paul?

All of the senior cast are so lovely to work with – there's a reason they've been doing this for so long! Stefy is kind of like a dad to me on set as well, and he's taken me under his wing.

We see that you've been filming a second show in Oz...

Yeah, I've been doing The Family Law up in Brisbane – it's a comedy where I play a 15-year-old! During my most hectic week, I did two days in Brisbane, then flew back and did three days on Neighbours. It was one of the biggest weeks I've had since I started the show.

ALAN HALSALL

Corrie's Tyrone Dobbs
...faces your questions!

They ANSWER!

It's been pretty full on for Tyrone recently, so his real-life alter ego Alan was pleased to take some time away from the Coronation Street set to answer your questions...

“What was your reaction when you first heard that Tyrone was going to cheat on Fiz?”

Well, shock, more than anything! I wouldn't have thought it, with Tyrone having two children and all that. It does highlight some problems that Tyrone and Fiz have in their relationship, but it could also strengthen it. It was a story I didn't see coming, and I think it shocked fans as well. They probably see Tyrone and Fiz as a solid couple who will go on. Not to say that they won't – but who knows?

“What's the best football match you've ever played in?”

“Would you like to see Tyrone and Fiz finally get hitched, and if so, what sort of wedding would they have?”

Well, most people think that Tyrone and Fiz are already married!

They've been 15 years in the making, so it would be nice for them to get married in the end. I think the wedding would be... whatever Fiz wanted it to be!

“I loved the recent scenes between Ty and Sean. What's the best thing about working with Antony Cotton?”

What's the best thing? That he gets to work with me! He's very lucky! No,

Saddle state of affairs: Tyrone got a little horse

I'm kidding! You know what, it's really lovely doing those scenes. It's a bit of tongue-in-cheek humour. I've had some tough stories with the child cancer and cheating on Fiz, so sometimes it's nice to do those humorous scenes.

“Who would you like to see Tyrone team up with as a new pal?”

Because I'm biased, Kirk – my best mate is [star] Andy Whymant. I always like to do scenes with Andy. The person that I don't like to do scenes with is Simon Gregson, who plays Steve, because I can't keep a straight face with him! He's an absolute wind-up merchant. He looks like butter wouldn't melt, but I'm telling you it does – very quickly! He doesn't have to do much, it's just his mannerisms and his face. On set, we can get a bit raucous when me and him are together. They can get a lot more done when we're not around!

Keep your eye on the ball: Pelé is an inspiration for Alan, who met the legendary player in person

Halsall that ends well: Lucy-Jo and Alan got married in 2009

Take one for the team: Alan plays with other Corrie cast members

"You're a big football fan and part of the Corrie cast team – so what's the best match you've ever played?"

Oh, wow... I played in a testimonial for Gordon Banks, the goalkeeper. Pelé and Desmond Tutu came and gave us our pre-match talk. They had us dancing in the changing rooms! It was one of the most surreal moments of my life, but it was fantastic. Pelé signed all our shirts – he's a fantastic man, and obviously an idol to somebody who supports football like I do.

"Can you tell us a secret about Jennie McAlpine [Fiz]?"

Well, winding people up gets me through the day, and Jennie cannot handle that in the slightest. She goes as red as you can imagine! She just curls up and dies in the corner. There's that, and also the fact that she's allergic to weather over eight degrees. She goes out in the sun and it's hilarious. God knows how she got on in that jungle! She has to use an umbrella if it's any warmer than eight.

"What's it like working with the two little girls who play Ty's daughters Ruby and Hope?"

Obviously it has its challenges, working with a five- and seven-year-old, but they are good girls. It must be tough for them. They just want to play most of the time! But they've done a really good job with this latest storyline. They've had a lot to do and a lot of lines, so I'm really proud of them. Every time I see them in the canteen, they give me a big cuddle. It's like a 'dad at work'-type thing. It's lovely.

"What's it like working with little Hope and Ruby?"

"There's a charity boxing match going on in the show at the moment – but if you could choose any Coronation Street character for Tyrone to fight, who would it be?"

Steve McDonald. He's just got one of those faces that you'd like to hit! That's an easy one, that.

"What's it like being married to soap villain of the year?"

...asks reader William Proud from London

That's probably more a question for Lucy! [Alan's wife Lucy-Jo Hudson won the 2017 British Soap Award for Villain of the Year for her role as killer mum Rhiannon Davis in Doctors.] It was a fantastic story, and she was very deserving of it. She put everything into that performance. It was obviously a tough one for Lucy as a new mother at the time, but she was just amazing.

Ruby prize: Tyrone and his kids have had their ups and downs, but the actor adores his little co-stars

"What's the most bonkers thing you've ever been asked to do for your art?"

I've been waxed – that was fun! I've ridden a horse down wet cobbles. I've dressed as a reindeer. And even as an actor, you're kissing people who are lifelong friends. That's odd at times. I go back 20-odd years with Samia [Longchambon, who plays Maria], and she's like a sister to me. So obviously, scenes that involve kissing her are odd. It's a weird and wonderful world, but that's part of the attraction.

Every week, we put your questions to a star of the soaps. Look out for requests on our Facebook page, or email your questions to youask@insidesoap.co.uk, putting the actor's name in the subject line. Our favourite question each week will win a £20 prize!

THESE SOAPIES HAVE A CLAN-DO ATTITUDE...

It's a sentiment expressed by everyone from Walford's Mitchells to the Dales' Dingles: family comes first. And these soapsies have set out to prove that it's exactly the same in the real world, too! Blast from the past

“I miss Ben – but he’s still out there somewhere!”

As former EastEnders star Harry Reid takes to the stage, he knows Albert Square will never be too far away...

Last time we saw Ben Mitchell, he was legging it from Calais ferry port with a wad of cash in his pocket and no immediate plans to return to Walford. And while actor Harry Reid – who played him – has admitted that Ben’s departure wasn’t his decision, he has grabbed the opportunity with both hands.

Having joined the cast of London stage production Witness For The Prosecution playing the accused Leonard Vole, Harry has shaken off Ben’s demons – and is feeling at home as he treads the boards...

“Every night when I leave this place, I’m buzzing,” he grins, as we chat on the play’s impressive County Hall stage set. “There’s always a level of nerves because we all care about the audience enjoying it. But we’re a tight company, and we look after each other. It’s a very exciting time, and I’m really happy!”

As the play’s pivotal character, Leonard faces judge and jury every single evening – and Harry has worked hard to make the Agatha Christie character his own.

“I was very particular about Leonard’s look,” reveals the 25-year-old, who took over the role of Ben from Joshua Pascoe in 2014. “When I was at EastEnders, Ben was crying or angry a lot of the time, whereas Leonard is a sweet, charming guy – and we’ve given him the look to match. A curly ‘Teddy Boy’ hairstyle, no more glasses, and a quirkier physicality – which are all nice things to play with.”

With Leonard standing accused of murder, there are some similarities that he and convicted killer Ben do share. But Harry reckons his former alter ego would be no match for Leonard in the dock...

“Ben would never get away with anything in this court – he’d be destroyed!” chuckles the actor. “The way the prosecutor goes for Leonard, Ben would jump out of the dock and go for him – and that would be that! He just wouldn’t be able to contain himself. Ben could knock him out – but Leonard has the will and the discipline he lacks.”

Having played Phil Mitchell’s troubled son for over three years, Harry has wasted no time in moving on to this new project. And the actor credits his Walford co-stars with helping to make the major transition so smooth.

“I had so many good mentors at EastEnders,” enthuses Harry. “Linda Henry [Shirley], Steve McFadden [Phil], Letitia Dean [Sharon], Perry Fenwick [Billy] – the list goes on. They’ve all helped to bring me to this point. They were always there to offer advice, and they’re excited for me to go on and do my stuff. But now I’m a grown man, I have to deal with things in my own way. I hope a few of my old cast mates will make it to see the show, though – as long as they behave themselves!”

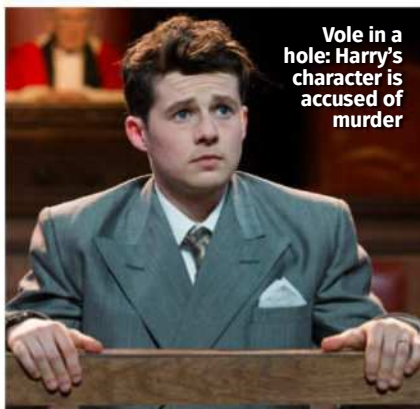

While he conquers theatreland, Harry admits that he hasn’t quite left Ben behind yet. And wherever his Walford character might be, Harry is grateful that it’s not six feet under...

“I do miss Ben because he’ll always be a massive part of me – he was my first big role, and such an exciting one to play,” shares the star. “But I’d miss him a whole lot more if he was dead! Because I know there’s a chance he could be brought back one day, it’s not a problem. Ben’s still out there somewhere, and that’s the most important thing!”

FRIENDS FOREVER

Harry is keeping an eye on Ben's best buddy...

While Ben was devoted to his late partner Paul, his friendship with best mate Jay was always the ultimate bromance. And though Ben is gone, Harry insists that there's no danger of that famous friendship being broken...

"I've got a dartboard with Keanu's head on it at home!" jokes the star. "No, no, no – not really... Me and Danny Walters, who plays Keanu, were having a bit of banter about this at the NTAs. I'd heard Keanu and Jay were getting pally, and I was like, 'All right mate? Taking my buddy are ya?'. That was funny. But I'm not concerned, because if Ben were to come back, nobody ain't getting past him when it comes to Jay – no way!"

ALL WHITE ON THE NIGHT

BEN HARDY AND JESSIE BUCKLEY STAR IN A CLASSIC MYSTERY STORY...

Over the past three weeks, we've spent Sunday nights gripped by Agatha Christie's Ordeal By Innocence, a story from one of the greatest mystery writers in history. The next series to occupy that timeslot is also a classic adaptation: in fact, it's considered to be one of the first examples of "detective fiction".

In The Woman In White, young painter Walter Hartright – played by ex-EastEnders Ben Hardy (Peter Beale) – is hired to tutor two young women in Cumbria, but the night before he leaves London he has an odd encounter with a ghostly young woman dressed in white on Hampstead Heath. When he starts his new role, he's taken aback at the resemblance between one of his pupils, Laura Fairlie, and the strange young woman he saw – and learns that the woman in white has a connection to the house.

"Walter is the audience's perspective on the story – you see it through his eyes," explains Ben. "It's this very strange experience where he meets a woman on the heath who just really baffles him. She appears troubled – she doesn't seem insane, but she comes from a mental asylum and that disturbs him. And then there's the fact that she mentions Limmeridge, which is where he's about to go – and Limmeridge is a single house in Cumbria, so it all seems a bit mysterious!"

His other pupil, Laura's half-sister Marian Halcombe, happens to know a few things about the woman in white and helps Walter unpick the puzzle of her connection to Limmeridge. Marian is described in the original novel as intelligent, independent – and unattractive. Surprisingly, War And Peace star Jessie Buckley, who plays her, rather enjoyed that side of Marian.

"She was described as 'half man and half woman'," recalls the star. "But for me, she's the Janis Joplin of the Victorian era – she's a feminist voice questioning where women should be allowed to grow and not be held by the constraints society has put on them to be just a wife. Women were expected to be aesthetically pleasing to a man, and she just doesn't give a crap! What you see is what you get – that's what's so attractive about her."

While Walter in the series is a master of arts, Ben admits that he had to work very hard to be at ease with an easel.

"I'm a terrible painter!" he confesses. "I had many Actress Amrita Acharia picks her dream viewing...

The Good Place

I've just started watching The Good Place

– literally one episode and it's very quick! There's a Netflix show called Call My Agent!, which is brilliant. It's a French series, Dix Pour Cent, which translates to 10 per cent – what agents take from actors. It's amazing because I think, "Oh my God, actors are so annoying!" I told my agent: "I get where you're coming from now!"

I'm obsessed with Suits at the moment.

I'm so late to the game, but it's become my go-to when I need to switch off. I love the clothes and the costume design on it, but it's also fast-paced and I love the writing. I've just watched Next Of Kin and Trauma too.

I grew up in Ukraine and Kathmandu, so my favourite show as a child was something called Nu, Pogodi! It's a bit like Tom And Jerry, but it's a wolf and a rabbit, and it's actually really political – if you have a chance, Google it! That, and Bollywood movies – growing up in Nepal, I was quite exposed to those.

I know that some people have the TV on in the background, but I can't do that – I have music on. If the TV is on, I've got to watch it.

Recently, I saw the movie Molly's Game, which was brilliant. I love Jessica Chastain so much, she's so inspiring. And I really, really loved that there were no sex scenes in it; considering the world it was about, I thought that was amazing.

Ben played Walford's Peter Beale from 2013-15, and since leaving Albert Square the talented actor has already clocked up a big screen appearance in hit film X-Men: Apocalypse. He's thrilled to have landed a leading role in a top BBC drama, too – but he's not getting ahead of himself.

"It's been going really well," he grins. "But who knows – I could be driving an Uber in a couple of months!"

of two lovably dodgy builders quickly evolved into a study of male friendship and how blokey banter can become a way of avoiding talking about feelings. But as Lee and the lads get drunk on his stag do in this week's final episode, we suspect some of those feelings might finally get aired...

NICOLA WALKER STARS AS A SUCCESSFUL DIVORCE LAWYER GOING UP AGAINST HER FAMILY IN A NEW DRAMA...

Family fortunes: Husband Nathan is important to them all

London is famous for many reasons – not all of them entirely positive. Due to English law favouring the less well-off half of a partnership, London has become the “divorce capital” of the world, and that cut-and-thrust arena is at the centre of this new drama.

High-powered divorce lawyer Hannah Stern (Nicola Walker) has recently walked out on the family firm, joining a rival company that regularly has her thrashing out settlements on the opposite side of the table from her mother and sister. And as if that wasn't messy enough, her estranged father has just resurfaced after an absence of 30 years. Here, Nicola explains the situation her character finds herself in...

What can you tell us about Hannah?

She is a respected and successful lawyer involved in big-figure settlements. She was born into a family of divorce lawyers – her mother Ruth is feared and admired in their professional world. We meet Hannah at a pivotal moment in her personal and professional life – she's spent her working life with the family firm Defoe's, but controversially she's leaving to join rival firm Noble & Hale. It's a huge moment for her.

She has two sisters – what's the dynamic like within the family?

Ruth brought them up to believe it was the four of them against the world, and Hannah loves her sisters deeply. Being the eldest,

Hannah has always taken on a great deal of responsibility. She held the family together in some ways when the father left, even though she was only a child herself. She's a fixer within the family.

What does the return of Hannah's father Oscar mean for her?

It's like a grenade being dropped into her life. It forces her to re-evaluate everything about herself, everything that happened before this point and how she moves forward. It brings the past back to haunt them all.

Hannah is married to Nathan – is that a solid relationship in this world of acrimonious splits?

They love each other. They've been together for a very long time. He's totally involved with and very important to the whole family – he jokes at one point, “You get one Defoe, you get them all”. But there's an issue underneath the marriage that they haven't addressed...

Could you do her job?

I think I'd get too emotionally involved. It is an intimate relationship between divorce lawyer and client. You find out everything about them and their marriage, but you're not being paid to be their friend and your first duty is always to the court. I think I would find that hard.

MEDICAL MARVELS

EMILY VANCAMP AND MATT CZUCHRY TALK TO US ABOUT AMERICA'S GRITTIEST HOSPITAL DRAMA...

Second opinion: Matt and Emily play medics

The word “uncompromising” barely does justice to The Resident's portrayal of healthcare in America: the show has only been on for two weeks and we've already seen patients harmed by doctors for reasons of ego, self-preservation and money, to name just three. This look at the darker side of medicine has made it our favourite new US show of the season, so when stars Matt Czuchry (Dr Conrad Hawkins) and Emily VanCamp (nurse practitioner Nic Nevin) came to the UK to promote the show, we made sure to book an appointment...

What appealed to you both about this show?

Emily I was never into the medical genre before. The thing that spoke to me was that it's a completely different perspective, and it tackles stories that I would have second-guessed, had I not done my research after reading the pilot. Medical error is the third leading cause of death in America – that's a real statistic, but no one talks about it. I wanted to tell stories that were exposing certain aspects of the American healthcare system, particularly because of the political climate there right now.

Matt The first scene of the series is a long one, and there's a medical error which happens from a routine surgery by a doctor. That opening to the show was, 'Oh, this is different, there are these ethical issues, there are moral issues that come into play' – and the character and human elements instantly grabbed my attention.

We know that Conrad and Nic used to date – where will the story go with them?

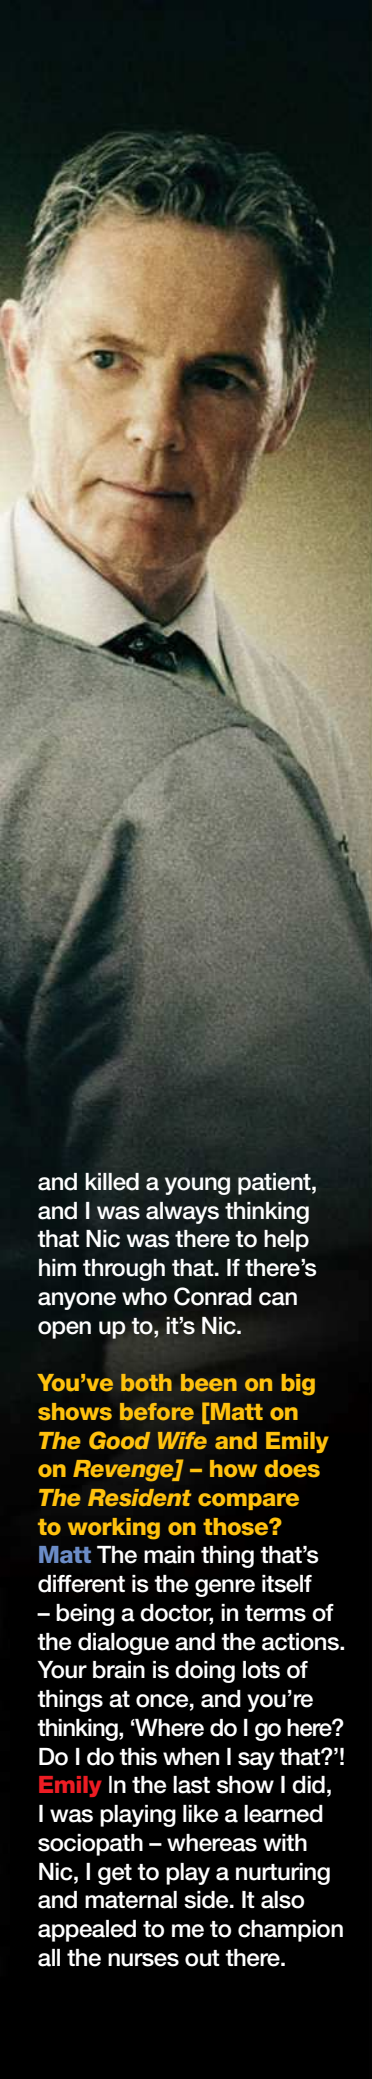

Emily It's really complicated. You get the sense that there's a deep love and respect there – they have this insane sexual chemistry, yet they're not on the same page on some core issues, and sometimes that happens in relationships. It's tragic, but they're stubborn.

Matt And doctors and nurses go through these life-and-death experiences together. Nic and Conrad have seen each other in a way that no one else can see them. In the first episode, Conrad admits that he once made a mistake

PAUL O'GRADY FOR THE LOVE OF DOGS: INDIA | ITV THURSDAY

PAUL O'GRADY RETURNS TO INDIA TO MEET THE PEOPLE LOOKING AFTER DELHI'S STREET DOGS...

Paul's trip to India last year to find out more about the country's wild animals and conservationists clearly made a lasting impression on him – and of course, he fell a bit in love with the dogs he met along the way.

"When we were there last year, I said we should do something about the street dogs, because I was forever feeding them," reveals Paul. "We went to the Taj Mahal and I wasn't bothered – you can see on film, I'm just busy feeding the dogs!"

So Paul and his team decided to return to Delhi to film this new four-part series where he explores the issues faced by the city's estimated 400,000 street dogs – and to meet those dedicating themselves to canine care.

"It's just the sheer number of street dogs – there's so many of them, packs of them," shares Paul. "A lot of the people and the neighbourhoods do feed them and help them, but others don't, and they are booted into the sewers and things. The dog shelter relies on the generosity of the people, but they really need more funds."

Paul's trip to Delhi made headlines in the UK when he became ill with a severe infection – but the good news is he's much better now.

"It was my own fault – I was warned!" he recalls. "There I was, rolling around in the gutter with puppies, which isn't something you do in Delhi, letting them lick your face. I got very ill with a virus, and ended up in hospital as I had such a high fever!"

and killed a young patient, and I was always thinking that Nic was there to help him through that. If there's anyone who Conrad can open up to, it's Nic.

You've both been on big shows before [Matt on The Good Wife and Emily on Revenge] – how does The Resident compare to working on those?

Matt The main thing that's different is the genre itself – being a doctor, in terms of the dialogue and the actions. Your brain is doing lots of things at once, and you're thinking, 'Where do I go here? Do I do this when I say that?!' Emily In the last show I did, I was playing like a learned sociopath – whereas with Nic, I get to play a nurturing and maternal side. It also appealed to me to champion all the nurses out there.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY PARTY | BBC1 8PM

A right royal knees-up

The Queen turns 92 today, which is quite an achievement in anyone's books. Imagine how big a cake you'd need to get 92 candles on it. Imagine how many matches you'd need in order to light 92 candles. Fortunately for us, we don't particularly need to concern ourselves with logistics, but we do all get to attend her party, in a manner of speaking: there's a concert taking place at the Royal Albert Hall tonight in honour of the occasion, and the whole thing is being beamed into our living rooms on BBC One (or BBC Radio 2, if you would prefer to just enjoy the soundscape).

Acts from all over the world have been booked to perform, including veterans such as Sir Tom Jones and Kylie Minogue, and relative newcomers like Anne-Marie and Shawn Mendes. We hope to catch sight of Her Majesty singing along to Ciao Adios, or There's Nothing Holdin' Me Back.

In the air tonight

THE KEITH & PADDY PICTURE SHOW | ITV 9.20PM

We're not sure there's ever been a more perfect target for Keith and Paddy's film-spoofing sensibilities than 80s classic action film/homoerotic love story Top Gun. Keith takes the lead as flying ace Maverick, with Paddy as his sidekick Goose – and in the 'celebrity guest star' department, we have Sarah Parish as Maverick's love interest Charlie, Marc Warren as rival Iceman, and Paul Chuckle as chief instructor Viper. They even suffered for their art: apparently their recreation of the iconic beach volleyball scene was shot on Camber Sands in less than clement weather...

LITTLE BIG SHOTS | ITV 7PM

The kids are all right

Dawn French returns tonight with a brand-new series of the feel-good series where kids from all over the world get to show off their talents. As before, there is no competition, there are no winners, and there are no prizes: it's just a chance for them to do what they love in front of a massive audience.

Dawn's guests for the first show of the series include four-year-old aspiring guardsman Marshall from Windsor, who became an internet sensation when a video of him meeting a real-life guardsman went viral. There's also a spellbinding routine from nine-year-old aerial acrobats Aleksei and Kamilla from Russia, while talented seven-year-old drummer Geneva from London will be making some noise.

In deep water

THE GOOD KARMA HOSPITAL | ITV 9PM

It's our final visit of the current series to The Good Karma Hospital tonight – and when a dispute over fishing territory ends up turning violent, it's primarily thanks to the quick-thinking of AJ that a patient lives to tell the tale. Meanwhile, Lydia receives a letter from her former mentor Virginia Mileham (played by guest star Sue Johnston, looking much more reassuringly sprightly here than she did in Channel 4's Kiri a few months back), who has a request that puts Lydia in an ethical dilemma. And Greg is concerned when Paul wakes up following his suicide attempt seemingly determined to pretend that it never happened.

MERCY STREET | Drama 7PM

The US Civil War medical drama wraps up things for good tonight – PBS, the show's broadcaster in the US, confirmed last year that the show has been cancelled. President Lincoln's issuing of the Emancipation Proclamation leaves James needing to rethink his plans for an alliance – and as Pinkerton gets closer to the truth about the murdered Union soldier, he's forced to take some drastic action.

REVOLUTION | Sky One 6.30PM

The fourth heat takes place tonight, pitting more bladers, boarders and BMXers against each other for a coveted spot in the final. Join Steve-O and Maya Jama for more high-velocity thrills, with Jordan Banjo at Adrenaline Alley.

LAW & ORDER: SPECIAL VICTIMS UNIT | Universal 10PM

The SVU team returns to our screens with the first new episode after a two-week break. The latest case is an allegation of sexual assault against a soldier, but trying to get answers out of the military involves a lot of red tape.

HOLIDAYS UNPACKED | Channel 4 8PM

New horizons

Don't get us wrong, there's a lot to be said for booking your holiday in a location that's comfortable and familiar, where you know exactly what you'll be getting. But there's a big wide world out there, so what if, in doing so, you're missing out on something really great?

This new four-part series is here to help us explore our options, as presenters Morland Sanders and Lucy Hedges show the viewers fascinating alternative holidays that you could book for approximately the same price as that standard week in the Med.

In this opening episode, Lucy heads for Israel to see what Tel Aviv has to offer for a city break – before hiring a car and heading into the Judean Desert to explore. Morland, meanwhile, goes to Costa Rica in search of adventure and world-class surfing.

The next stage of the selection process brings the students to the remote highlands of Scotland for a spot of survival training; undercover operatives might be dropped somewhere isolated, after all, and their commissioning officers need to know that they'll be able to fend for themselves. The group will be training in the exact same mountains used by the original training programme in the 1940s, and they'll have to draw on their remaining physical and mental strength – but not all of them will meet the requirements of the task...

FATBERG AUTOPSY: SECRETS OF THE SEWERS | Channel 4 9PM

Fats entertainment

Just in case you thought that working in TV was a glamorous job, this should change your mind. In this documentary special, Rick Edwards heads into the sewers to observe a strange modern phenomenon: the fatberg. With a team of scientists and sewer workers, Rick will have a close encounter with one of the biggest ever found in the UK to analyse what they are made of – and learn how we can prevent them.

Rick's easy-going manner makes the whole thing much more enjoyable than you would expect (his chat with the professional "flushers" about their favourite fatbergs is a particular highlight) – but still, make sure that you don't make any plans to eat while you're watching the show.

TOP OF THE SHOP WITH TOM KERRIDGE | BBC2 8PM

Regional variations

If you are looking for something to watch over dinner, on the other hand, this is a much more natural fit. Tonight's episode will be particularly appealing for viewers with a sweet tooth, as Tom meets four producers of premium-grade sweets and chocolates. The delights on offer range from a fashion photographer who makes Scottish Tablet (which, if you're unfamiliar with it, is apparently like fudge but crumblier) to cocktail-flavoured marshmallows made by a court officer. There's even a producer of bean-to-bar chocolate who is counting this as the official launch day of her wares – and admits she has no idea if they are going to work...

HERE AND NOW | Sky Atlantic 9PM

This series has been a puzzler – its portrayal of a right-on family grappling with issues that challenge their world view has been clumsily executed, and even Holly Hunter and Tim Robbins can't make Audrey and Greg fun to spend any time with. Yet we've stuck with it. Are we gripped, or hate-watching? Anyway, season one ends tonight as Ramon disappears after a family incident.

GOTHAM | E4 9PM

Gordon heads to Miami in the hope of persuading Carmine Falcone to assist him in getting rid of Cobblepot. Falcone can't help, but perhaps his daughter Sofia can? Meanwhile, an obsessive fan helps to unfreeze Nygma.

BRIDGET & EAMON | Gold 10PM

Bridget's got a new job doing the census – and she's thrilled to be financially independent, even if it's only for a month. The job comes with better perks than just money – like the chance to pry into the personal affairs of her friends.

THE ASSASSINATION OF GIANNI VERSACE: AMERICAN CRIME STORY | BBC2 9PM

Life after death

The decision to present this series in reverse chronological order (well, more or less) was a bold one – once or twice it's meant that we've had to go back and re-watch bits of previous episodes on iPlayer so that we can fully appreciate the consequences of what we've just seen. But we reckon that it's been rather satisfying to delve a little further back into the twisted life story of Andrew Cunanan each week.

Having said that, given the title of the series, it would be a bit of an anti-climax to not have more of the aftermath of the actual murder of Versace himself, so it makes sense that tonight's final episode takes us back (or forward – rather confusing!) to 1997, as Cunanan hides out in Miami, watching the news coverage of his crime, finally having achieved infamy. But the police are steadily closing in...

BRITAIN'S FAT FIGHT WITH HUGH FEARNLEY-WHITTINGSTALL | BBC1 9PM

"Obesity is a crisis that we can do something about – so let's do something about it," states Hugh at the start of this three-part documentary, which looks at how many of us have fallen into unhealthy eating habits, and the ways in which we can make better choices. Having the right information at our fingertips is crucial, so Hugh takes on some big brands over the labels on their products in the hope of making them easier for the average shopper to understand. He also sets up an ambitious weight-loss project in Newcastle – but one passer-by points out that he's targeting the wrong crowd.

HAROLD SHIPMAN: DOCTOR DEATH | ITV 9PM

DON'T Miss!

Killer evidence

The revelation that unassuming GP Harold Shipman was in fact a serial killer responsible for the deaths of 215 of his patients – primarily elderly women – shocked the nation when it became headline news in 1998. As the 20th anniversary of Shipman's arrest approaches, this documentary presents new witness testimony examining how the doctor literally got away with murder for three decades by hiding in plain sight.

The interviewees include detectives working on the case, who discuss how an investigation into a single suspicious death became increasingly wide in scope – and how a lack of witnesses or hard evidence drove them to the unprecedented step of exhuming the bodies of 12 of Shipman's victims.

Also featured is Sandra Whitehead, a nurse who worked alongside Shipman on the wards of Pontefract General Infirmary back in 1972, who reveals how she's still haunted by three suspicious deaths that occurred on a night shift.

CIVILISATIONS | BBC2 9PM

The epic series charting a journey through thousands of years of art and human existence concludes tonight, with a film by Simon Schama that poses a lot of bold questions about the role of art. In a world increasingly driven by profit, should art create a universe of its own to provide us with escapism? Or is it vital for art to reflect the society that we live in and challenge the way we perceive everything around us? It's a lot to tackle over the course of a single hour, but we're fascinated to see what conclusions he comes to.

OUR WILDEST DREAMS | Channel 4 8PM

Amazon prime?

Ordinary Brits leaving their everyday lives behind and embarking on a fresh start in remote parts of the world always makes for good TV. Perhaps it's something to do with that feeling of wishing we had the courage and self-belief to do what these people are doing – while also feeling really relieved that we're watching it all play out from the comfort of a sturdily-built house with functional electricity and plumbing, and a fully-stocked corner shop just down the road.

The first episode follows the journey of ex-businesswoman Mari and her Ecuadorian husband Kurikindi as they leave their home in Greenwich and move to a remote Amazonian community. For Kurikindi, it's a long-awaited return home, and for Mari, it's an exciting yet also slightly intimidating leap into a completely new lifestyle – but it's one she's determined to make a success of for the sake of their five-year-old daughter Samai.

THE CITY & THE CITY | BBC2 9PM

The final part of this stylish, innovative and – if we're honest – quite confusing drama about two (or is it three?) cities occupying the same geographical space opens in fairly terrifying fashion, as Borlú finds himself in the custody of Breach after violating border law. He quickly cottons on to the fact that the potential existence of the rumoured third city of Orciny has got them worried, so Borlú is going to have to continue his investigation and prove or disprove its existence once and for all – and hopefully find out what happened to his wife.

IN and OUT

We spin soap's revolving door...

EILEEN DAVIES

IN (Flora McArdle, Coronation Street)

The corpse of Vinny Ashford – real name Harvey McArdle – has finally been dug up, but it looks as if there may be more to come in this tale, as his mum Flora appears again. Local reporter Daniel has already expressed his concern about the pensioner, and we'll finally see him go above and beyond to help her in the coming weeks. May

NITIN GANATRA

(Masood Ahmed, EastEnders)

OUT He's brought hilarity and high jinks to the Square these past few months, but Masood's screen time will diminish while real-life alter ego Nitin Ganatra stars in a new play. End Of The Pier by Danny Robins will premiere at the Park Theatre in Finsbury Park, London and will run for a month from 11 July. Summer

DARIUS WILLIAMS
(Ty, Home and Away)

IN Summer Bay will finally have a gay character in residence again, as John and Marilyn take in waif Ty. As the teen befriends Raffy, what secrets is he hiding? Summer

JAZMINE FRANKS
(Esther Bloom, Hollyoaks)

OUT Jack is set to lose another member of his family, after his stepgranddaughter Esther leaves the village. "No longer having Frankie around means the time is right for Esther to move on," shares Jazmine Franks, who plays her. "I've had such a wonderful time at Hollyoaks and have had the chance to work with the most amazing people." Next week

THE EX FILES!

What are the one-time stars of soap up to now?

IN FOR A HALFPENNY

Former EastEnders (Kate Mitchell) and Strictly winner Jill Halfpenny will soon be leading the cast in a blockbuster stage production of the smash-hit crime novel The Girl On The Train. The show will premiere at Leeds' West Yorkshire Playhouse, followed by a UK tour.

NEW YORKSHIRE

He may have recently presented Channel 5's Springtime On The Farm, but Kelvin Fletcher (Andy Sugden) has no plans to return to rural soap Emmerdale. In fact, he's recently spent time Stateside working on his acting career over there – not to mention his accent! "Possibly because I've got such a strong northern accent, I emphasise the wrong part of words," he confesses.

BUTCHERS' JOY!

They say blood is thicker than water, and that's certainly the case for ex-EastEnders star Charlie Brooks (Janine Butler) – as she regularly makes time to catch up with her on-screen brother Sid Owen, aka Ricky. "Yeah, we've just spent Easter in France together – and he's usually in the kitchen cooking for me," she cackled on Lorraine. It's all right for some!

HITS & MISSES!

WHAT'S HIT THE BULLSEYE RECENTLY – AND WHAT'S FALLEN WIDE OF THE MARK?

Charity confessing her secret to Vanessa has reminded us what an absolute pillock Declan Macey was. Let's hope her all-new backstory doesn't give him a reason to come out of hiding.

We're pleased that poor Kim in Hollyoaks has a poster of Rick Astley to talk to. He's never gonna give her up, let her down, run around or desert her.

Who'd have guessed that former Family Affairs and Holby favourite Rocky Marshall would turn out to be the reason Charity is so tortured? It's a funny old world is soapland.

Take a bow, whoever it was in the EastEnders wardrobe department who sourced these leopard-print tabards...

David is nothing if not predictable. That's what it will say on his tombstone: "Predictable... And Insufferable. Actually Borderline Unbearable."

BULLSEYE!

Soap's Most-Doomed-To-Fail Scheme continued to delight this week, as Tayah hustled secret surrogate Eva away to her own private birthing cottage. We're amazed they've held their nerve this long, seeing as it's clear Eva's now carrying more than just a few extra Christmas pounds! Meanwhile, it upsets us that Eva is still painted as the villain in the Aidan factory saga. He cheated on her for a whole year, for mercy's sake!

Carla was unexpectedly moved by news of Gary's attack this week. Was he set to be the next notch on her well-whittled bedpost?

Surely the breaking of Ashley's window was the perfect excuse to get rid of the hideous thing? Now the poor love looks like some crudely glued-together Frankenstein's monster.

The Mel and Phil 'thing' was barely plausible back then, let alone now. Cringe factor one million, billion, zillion. And we did not need to see her stiletto rubbing up his inner thigh!

Is Woody desperate to win back Whitney? Or just desperate for a wee? It's hard to tell the difference.

After months of whinging about their unemployment, it's good to see the factory girls so thrilled to have their jobs back. Anyone would think they'd just had a dead stoat slipped through their letterbox.

While we love Eva, it was a bit rich for her to criticise the unsubtlety of Maria's make-up this week, given that hers looks as if it's been applied with Homer Simpson's make-up gun.
